WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 9.

SAVED BY A RATTLESNAKE .- Our Cotton avenue story teller has given us another of the old time incidents that may while away an idle moment. He says that a man was living in the lower edge of the county when Roanoke was burnt by the Indians, and joined in with the force who was sent against them. One morning he and another man got separated from the command, and while tollowing their trail was suddenly confronted by some ten or twelve savages who were probably a hundred yards off. They both turned to fiee, when the Indians fired on them. His companion fell dead, but he sped on, and the Indians followed. He got into a thicket and dodged hither and thither Roanoke was burnt by the Indians, and into a thicket and dodged hither and thither and at last found an old hollow log of huge proportions, into which he crept. After nwhile he heard an Indian tramping around. proportions, into which he crept. After awhite he heard an Indian tramping around. He approached the log, got on it, walked to the end, and sat down. The man in the log was scared very much, but kept quiet. The Indian sat a few minutes, got up and left, and pretty soon another one came along. He, too, sat on the log and then followed in the tracks of the other fellow. The hidden man began to breathe easier, when he again heard the tramp, tramp framp of the third Indian, who came up to the log, looked around, sat down for some time, and then went in the direction the other two had taken. He atill lay quiet in his log for some time, when hearing nothing else from his foes he began to pull out, when off in the distance he heard them beating the bushes, and at the same time his eyes fell on a large rattlesnake coiled up at the month of the log. He was now, indeed, a prisoner, and he dared not move. The Indians drew nearer, coming this time toward the entrance of his hiding place. The snake heard them, raised its head and gently shook its tail. The Indians, three in number, heard the warning, and came nearer. The rattler then commenced his music in earnest, and was killed by the Indians, but it seems that they took its presence at the end of the log as a surety that the person they were seeking was not there, and soon after went away. The fellow stuck to his hole until inght fell, when he crawlod out and lit out for home, where he stayed until he died a few years ago.—American Republican.

$500 Not Called For.

It seems strange that it is necessary to persuade men that you can cure their dis eases by offering a premium to the man who fails to receive benefit. And yet Dr. Sage undoubtedly cured thousands of cases of ob-stinate catarrh with his "Catarrh Remedy," who would never have applied to him, if it had not been for his offer of the above sum for an incurable case. Who is the next bidder for cure or cash.

The GAZETTE is now the oldest paper in the State, and with few exceptions the oldest in the country, and its usefulness has been demonstrated and appreciated during the EIGHTY-SEVEN YEARS of its existence. In its columns has always been found a mirror of passing events, and the careful chronicling of the history of what is going on in the world has ever been its aim. It is always welcomed in the household, while in the counting room and workshop it has been a invaluable

The GAZETTE has better facilities for the taining news than any paper outside of the national capital. Situated as it is so close to the great centre of news, it enjoys daily the benefit of the Associated Press dis patches from every part of the world; hence its patrons can read from its columns in the evening what has transpired that day in every portion of our own domain as well a from every part of the habitable globe. Consequently it is an every day occurrence for the GAZETTE to publish telegrams from the various European capitals twelve and fifteen hours earlier than the morning pa

The local department furnishes a full and complete history of everything that occurn and near the city, and this feature will as ever, receive careful attention.

Correspondence from Washington, Rich mond and every section of the State, is published regularly, and all events of interest occurring within the bounds of the Commonwealth are to be found in the columns of the GAZETTE.

The GAZETTE's circulation is steadily in creasing, especially among people who consult its advertising columns before purchasing. That this is self-evident may be inferred from the fact that a large country edition-nearly as large as the daily-is sent all over this section of country three times a week, and is read by thousands, most of whom send here or to contiguous cities to make purchases. The advantages of advertising in the GAZETTE are, therefore, ap-
